Foundation's Vision and Objectives

The European Lawyers Foundation (ELF) was established to involve European lawyers in the implementation of projects related to improvements in justice. Lawyers, as one of the most important justice stakeholders, are in the best position to identify challenges and propose measures to address today's priorities. ELF focuses on improving justice in the European Union (and its Member States) as well as in those countries where the involvement of European lawyers can contribute towards progress in human rights and the rule of law, through the implementation of projects which allow lawyers to contribute their knowledge and so provide value.

The Foundation's objectives, according to its statutes, are to promote access to justice; provide training for lawyers; undertake activities relating to the exercise of the profession of lawyer, the rule of law and legal services and substantive developments in the law itself; promote defence and protection of human rights and human rights defenders, and of international justice.

The Foundation works at both European and international level. The Foundation, a network of Bars and Law Societies from Europe, fulfils its objectives through the implementation of common projects.

Profiling the European Lawyers Foundation

ELF is an independent organization founded by the Council of Bars and Law Societies of Europe (CCBE - which represents the bars and law societies of 32 member countries and 13 further associate and observer countries, and through them more than 1 million European lawyers). The collaboration between ELF and CCBE ensures that ELF has access to the CCBE's expertise through its committees on substantial law and its network of lawyers in the Member States. As a result, ELF has access to one of the broadest networks in justice across Europe.

However, since ELF's activities are not limited to Europe, ELF maintains relationships with other organisations that work in the justice field worldwide. For instance, it collaborates in the implementation of projects with peer organisations such as the International Bar Association (IBA) and maintains regular contact with stakeholders such as the American Bar Association Center for Human Rights and Rule of Law Initiative (ABA ROLI). ELF also has relationships with regional Bars and Law Societies (Southern African Development Community Lawyers Association, East Africa Law Society, Law Asia) and with national Bars from various countries (e.g. Zimbabwe, Venezuela, Costa Rica, Fiji, Indonesia). It is open to collaborate with other actors worldwide to fulfill its mission and objectives.

In this way, ELF reinforces the position of The Hague (and The Netherlands) as the place of international justice, by adding Europeans lawyers' contributions towards the achievement of justice and peace - indeed, the motto of ELF, included in its logo, is 'Lawyers for Justice'.

Activities

ELF serves justice and, therefore, serves citizens. ELF's double objective is implemented principally through the implementation of a range of projects. ELF monitors the state of play of justice in various contexts, regions, etc. When ELF identifies an opportunity for improvement, it starts to brainstorm as to how to address the issue. After analysing different outcomes, a solution can be envisaged and the way to proceed is confirmed. At that stage, the development of a project proposal starts taking into account various elements: activities, methodology, timetable, funding, etc.

ELF activities take different forms: from the sending of experts to countries where their assistance may be relevant/required, to the development of IT tools for justice. However, the main activities of ELF take one of the following forms:

1. Training of legal professionals: ELF participates in the training of lawyers in various areas (for instance, EU law). ELF gives special attention now to training lawyers in migration law, data protection, the law on violence against women, and criminal law.
2. Exchange of lawyers: ELF, together with various EU Bars, runs projects that allow lawyers to travel for short periods of time to law firms in other Member States. This allows the lawyers to become familiar with other Member States' legal systems and helps them to extend their network.
3. Studies on substantive law: There are many areas of law where an analysis is required, together with a description of best practices, and recommendations. ELF has conducted studies on EU criminal law, recognition of training undertaken by lawyers in other Member States, and on anti-money laundering and counter-terrorism financing.
4. Supporting organisations in the field of law: Since ELF has access to a comprehensive network of legal professionals from various countries, it is able to help countries on specific issues. One example was the recent conference in Ukraine in 2015 that, in cooperation with the International Bar Association and the Ukrainian Bar, addressed fundamental issues relating to the rule of law.
5. Developing IT tools: Despite being established relatively recently, ELF has positioned itself as a strategic actor in the e-Justice field. This is due to the various e-Justice projects in which ELF has participated and is participating. ELF has been involved in projects such as Find-A-Lawyer 2 and 3 and the European Training Platform. It has also collaborated on the large-scale project called e-CODEX, which aims to interconnect the e-Justice systems of various EU Member States through the internet. After the conclusion of the e-CODEX project, ELF has been involved in its successor projects (i.e. Me-CODEX 1 and Me-CODEX 2). Finally, ELF also participated in a project on cross border videoconferencing in the field of justice. Taking into account that the objective of e-Justice is to obtain better access to justice through making it faster and cheaper, ELF will continue implementing projects in this field, to improve the quality of justice and contribute to protecting citizens' rights.
6. Organisation of/Participation in events to promote access to justice: ELF is committed to the organisation of events on relevant topics that will contribute to better access to justice. ELF, for instance, organised an event in April 2015 in The Hague on "The role of lawyers before international courts", the objective of which was to present proceedings before various international courts. Lawyers from across Europe participated. ELF regularly monitors the state of Justice in Europe and beyond, and the organisation of such events could become a regular activity.

Financial sources

ELF is a non-profit organisation and, therefore, its funds are used for the implementation of the projects mentioned above. ELF's budget and annual reports (describing its annual financial operations) are publicly available at <https://elf-fae.eu/about-us/annual-reports/>

The Foundation's main funds come from public administrations (mainly the European Union), as ELF carries out projects under the form of tenders (public contracts) or grants. While in grants it is forbidden to make a profit, the execution of tenders may create a small benefit for the organisations commissioned to provide the service. In such cases, ELF does not make profits as such, as the funds are reinvested in the Foundation's accounts to be used for future projects.

ELF can also access other funds belonging to non-public organisations, for instance grants given by other organisations for the implementation of projects. These funds cover the project's operations and no profit is made.

Finally, ELF may receive donations for its daily operations (offices, employees' remunerations, etc) or for the implementation of projects.

All the funds are used taking into account the daily state of play of justice both in Europe and worldwide.

To summarise, the resources of the Foundation are spent on two kinds of projects:

- a) European projects: projects of EU-added value that follow the priorities set by the European Union every year;
- b) "External projects": projects which are implemented beyond the EU's borders and where the assistance of EU lawyers is required.

The finances of ELF are structured in such a way as to allow the Foundation to carry out its work while ensuring its sustainability in the long term.
